

Trustees' Policy for the Appointment of New Trustees

Introduction

Responsibility for the recruitment of a new trustee rests with the existing trustees. They must oversee the management of an open and efficient process and always act in the best interests of Christ Church.

The composition of the body of trustees of Christ Church, Bath is referenced in the original trust deed, indicating that the number of trustees should be limited to ten, and that the Bishop of Bath and Wells, the Archdeacon of Bath and the Rector of Walcot all have a place on trustees as ex-officio members. The ex-officio places are explained in writing to new incumbents of these three roles, inviting them to take up the ex-officio post if they wish. Although the Bishop has not taken up the post in recent years, Archdeacon of Bath and the Rector of Walcot (or their representative) have been active and valuable members of the trustees. This being the case, it is generally agreed that the existing trustees aim to maintain a trustee body of eight other members.

It is noted that the Priest-in-Charge and the Church Wardens are invited to attend meetings in an active, but non-voting capacity.

Considering candidates

Possible candidates to fill a trustee vacancy will be discussed at a quorate meeting of the current trustees. Potential trustees should have a strong personal commitment to the Christ Church and its objectives. It is essential that there are no legal or other barriers to a trustee's appointment. It is also important that a trustee should have the necessary time and energy to devote to the role.

Trustees must be 18yrs or older and considered capable of managing their own affairs

Employees of Christ Church (or their 'connected persons' that is family, relatives or business partners) will not usually be considered as trustees. The Charity Commission advises that whilst combining the role of trustee and employee can occasionally be advantageous for the charity, the benefits would need to clearly outweigh the difficulties that can come with this dual role. If an exceptional and compelling reason to appoint an employee as a trustee were to arise, the trustees would seek advice regarding the appointment.

Church Wardens will not usually be considered as trustees, as they fulfil a distinct role as elected representatives of the congregation.

Members of the congregation may serve on Church Council and Trustees concurrently, although trustees should aim to ensure the overlap is not too extensive.

Trustees should aim to avoid two 'connected persons' serving as trustees at the same time (that is two members of the same family or two business partners). If it is considered in Christ Church's best interest to make such an appointment, this should be fully discussed at a quorate trustees meeting and the reasons recorded in the minutes.

More generally, the current trustees should consider:

- what new skills, knowledge or experience does the body of trustees need?
- are there specific interest groups that a new trustee could represent?
- Has as diverse a list of potential candidates been considered? Work towards ensuring the body of trustees represents the congregation it serves including aspects such as social or ethnic background, gender and disability.

Selection of trustees

New trustees are nominated and agreed by the existing body of trustees, and the selection of the prospective trustee is recorded in the minutes of the relevant meeting.

Vetting trustees

Before appointing a trustee, the Chair of Trustees will obtain a declaration from the prospective trustee that they are not disqualified from the appointment, according to the criteria laid out by the Charity Commission. These criteria are explained in the Charity Commission document guidance on automatic disqualification rules for charity trustees and charity senior positions. A template for this declaration is provided in Appendix One.

Trustees must consider potential conflicts of interest in advance of an appointment. They should ask potential trustees to declare any potential conflicts of interest which they themselves are aware of. The potential for conflicts of interest does not necessarily disqualify an otherwise well qualified person being appointed as a trustee, but it is important to identify any conflicts of interest and to make sure that they are properly managed. For further information, see the Trustees Policy for the Management of Conflicts of Interest.

The Charity Commission recommends that DBS checks should be obtained for trustees of charities which work with children or vulnerable adults. Church of England guidance does not require all PCC members to be DBS checked, even when the church 'sponsors and approves' work with children and/or vulnerable adults: "the decision about who to check on a PCC is left to local determination and will depend on the specific circumstances."¹

The Trustees of Christ Church have agreed that those with financial responsibility (the Treasurer and the Chair) plus the trustee with responsibility for safeguarding should be DBS checked for those roles (an enhanced check without barring information).

Appointment of trustees

The appointment of a trustee becomes effective once a prospective trustee has formally agreed to accept the trusteeship. The trusteeship may then begin immediately, or on a specified date.

New trustees should be signposted to the Charity Commission guide CC3 'The essential trustee: what you need to know'.

Appointment to the position of trustee at Christ Church is for a six-year term, with option to renew subject to the agreement of the other trustees. Those trustees already serving at the time this policy is first agreed will nominally commence a six-year term on a staged basis (January 2020, 2021 and 2022). The minutes of the relevant meeting will record which trustees will commence their six year term of service on which date.

Following the appointment of a new trustee, the trustees must ensure that:

- Christ Church Council is informed of the appointment
- The list of Trustees on the church website is updated
- The Charity Commission is notified of the appointment as soon as possible
- Bank mandates are amended if the new trustee is to be a signatory to the charity's account

Resignation or removal of a Trustee

If a trustee wishes to resign this should be ideally put in writing, and as a minimum be recorded in the minutes of the relevant trustee's meeting. The list of trustees held by the Charity Commission should be updated accordingly.

If the body of trustees does not have confidence in any individual trustee they may recommend their removal at the end of their six-year term, or in exceptional circumstances, hold a vote of no-confidence at a trustees meeting.
